National Institute of Whole Health Students to Benefit from Career Coaching & Job Placement Services

Partners with Whole Health Solutions & Fishers of Men Medical Group

September 22, 2006, Wellesley, MA – The National Institute of Whole Health (www.niwh.org), pioneers of Whole Health Education® and Whole Person Care, today announced a new menu of student and alumni services focused on job and work placement. NIWH graduates and students now have access to medical specific networking, career coaching and both traditional medical and integrative health job placement services. This is being accomplished thanks to a partnership with Dallas, Texas based Fishers of Men Medical Group and Providence, Rhode Island based Whole Health Solutions LLC.

Fishers of Men Medical Group will be marketing NIWH students according to their job search criteria, connecting and networking with physicians on their behalf. Said Gaylea Lunday, President & CEO, “Recently I have been working on placing nutritionists and gained an interest in and a tremendous appreciation for their industry. The education that NIWH students receive is second to none and we are excited to help them find positions that will tap into their expertise.”

Under the direction of Karlo Berger, ABT, LMT, Whole Health Solutions will work with graduates to identify potential employers, teach networking skills and conduct resume clinics. The goal is to help them become savvier about getting a job in the Whole Health sector.

“Because Whole Health Educators are still such new and dynamic professionals it can make their job search more difficult,” said Karlo Berger, ABT, LMT, Founder of Whole Health Solutions and the non-profit Integrative Medicine Alliance. “Often, doctors’ offices and medical facilities know that their patients are in real need of whole health education to address pressing health problems such as diabetes and obesity. But, these employers are not yet aware that professional Whole Health Educators are now in the job market and can meet their needs quite well. NIWH has developed evidence-based health education trainings for credentialed health care professionals that respond to the needs of doctor’s practices and provide solutions to the various problems in medical facilities related to providing excellent patient education and information services.”

NIWH has, for the past 30 years, provided evidence-based, integrative whole health education, delivered in a relationship-centered, whole person focused curriculums for health and medical professionals who desire to provide better patient care. This approach integrates the most current medical research with a natural outlook on healing and the wisdom of various spiritual teachings and, all of which are grounded in integrity and compassion. NIWH is an Accredited Provider of Continuing Professional Education through the Commission on Dietetic Registration of the American Dietetics Association; an approved provider of Education and Training thru the U.S. Veterans Administration, approved by the Department of Higher Education; endorsed by the American Holistic Nurses Association; and approved to provide Continuing Professional Education by several other national credentialing associations includes, nurses, social workers, health educators, acupuncturists, and licensed nutrition professionals.
